Indian Paper Industry Scenario

The paper industry in India, registered a growth of about 5-6 per cent in the year 2019-2020, but thereafter, due to wide spread of COVID-19 Pandemic, the sector has seen a de-growth. However, in a fair assessment, the industry is showing positive growth trend. By the year 2022 onward the Indian paper Industry is expected to come back to its earlier projected growth track and the demand for paper in the country is bound to grow to 30 Million Tonnes by the year 2026-27 from the present consumption of 24 Million Tonnes.

Looking into the performance of Indian Paper Industry, among various business segments within the industry, the packaging industry has fared well across all segments as pharma sector, FMCG and growth of the e-commerce business have played major role in driving growth of this segment. However, looking into the overall projected forecast of the Indian Paper industry, it is offering better business opportunities to technology suppliers to find genuine buyers to induct state-of-the art technologies which can bring overall growth to the industry. Around 15% of world population is staying in India but consumes only 3.5% of the total paper produced in the world. India's growing FMCG sector and high spending in education as well as more health consciousness of people, etc., are triggering factors of growth prospects of Indian Paper Industry.
